SMV Personnel

1. Grigori Sidorenko, General Director of the SMV, returned to Moscow for consultation on 2 September 1951. Sidorenko was accompanied by P. I. Chernomorsky, former General Director of the SMV, and Voronin, Director of the SMV Purchasing Office. Following the departure of these officials the director of the Nova-Denow refinery became Acting Director of SMV Headquarters, and Engr. Shvetzov assumed charge of the SMV Purchasing Office. (1)
2. Vtarvenko, a Soviet official who arrived in Vienna in the late summer of 1951, supervised scrap collection for the Purchasing Office while Sipiagin was in Moscow. Sipiagin, who returned to Vienna on 24 September 1951, and his colleague Shvetzov have been appointed political officers of the SMV.
3. Dyomen is still serving as Chief Comptroller of the SMV. (2) Suchov, his deputy, has been recalled to the USSR.
4. Pashlikin or Bashlikin, Director of the SMV's Karandage and Seismo-graphic Section, was summoned to Moscow in October 1951. (3) One Bablenko has taken over Pashlikin's duties for the present and is also handling procurement for Maszalai, Budapest.

New Drilling in Fischamend

SMV interest at present is centered on the Fischamend area, where recent exploratory drillings produced successful results in an unexpectedly short time. (4) Although SMV engineers sometimes are obliged to drill to a depth of 3,000 meters, in this field they struck oil at a depth of only 1,700 meters. In late September 1951 three derricks were operating in Fischamend, two drill rigs had been installed, and another well had been shot. The Soviets expected to bring in two more derricks to replace the two drill rigs. A total of 17 gas wells are now operating in Fischamend.

[REDACTED] Comment: These shipments were forwarded to the SMV as the result of a compensation arrangement involving the exchange of ceresin, produced in the Okeros-Stockerau refinery, for East German steel. The SMV sent these steel bars to USIA-controlled Schmid-hustite, Krens, to be manufactured into steel sheets. The finished product was subsequently forwarded by the SMV to the Soviet orbit, and the profits from this transaction used to finance pipe imports from the USSR.
